What is a geopolymer? In the 1950s, Viktor Glukovsky, of Kiev, USSR, developed concrete materials originally known under the names "soil silicate concretes" and "soil cements", but since the introduction of the geopolymer concept by Joseph Davidovits, the terminology and definitions of 'geopolymer' have become more diverse and often conflicting. The examples below were taken from 2011 ...

Coal fly ash is one of the most complex of the materials that can be characterized. Approximately 316 individual minerals and 188 mineral groups have been identified in various ash samples (Vassilev and Vassileva, 1997, Vassilev et al., 2003, Vassilev and Vassileva, 2005). The major components are metallic oxides with varying contents of unburnt carbon as measured by a loss on ignition (LOI) test.
